IN RE: Carolina Power & Light Company -)	ORDER APPROVING
Application for Approval of)	DISPATCHED POWER
Dispatched Power (Experimental))	(EXPERIMENTAL)
Rider No. 68C.)	RIDER NO. 68C

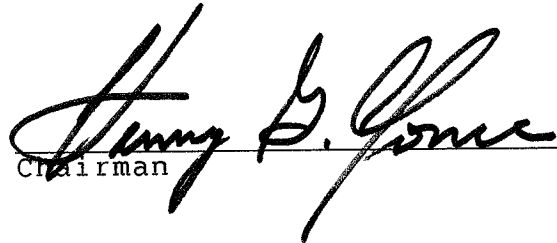

This matter is before the Public Service Commission of South Carolina (the Commission) on Carolina Power & Light Company's (CP&L's or the Company's) Request for approval of its Dispatched Power (Experimental) Rider No. 68C. CP&L asserts that Dispatched Power Rider No. 68C is an experimental program designed to offer large customers an attractive rate for incremental energy consumption during periods of relatively low system incremental generation costs. The experimental rider will be available to a maximum of ten (10) South Carolina customers. Dispatched Power Rider No. 68C provides two customer options which vary in duration and cost. CP&L states that the objectives of this order are fourfold: (1) to improve the economic efficiency of its large customers, (2) to improve the efficiency of its operating system, (3) to increase its strategic sales during its low system incremental generation cost periods, and (4) to provide information on the effects of dispatched power price signals on customer's load shapes. CP&L states that during the two-year experimental period it will monitor each participant's load shape response and satisfaction with the program and the effect of the program on the Company's revenues and costs to determine if the program is an effective tool to increase minimum system load and reduce plant cycling.

The Commission has considered CP&L's request for approval of its Dispatched Power (Experimental) Rider No. 68C and finds that such a program would be in the public interest. Accordingly, the Commission hereby approves the rider in accordance with the terms expressed in CP&L's request for approval. CP&L shall file ten (10) copies of this rider with the Commission; the rider shall be effective from the date of this Order.

IT IS SO ORDERED.
